Grading Distribution:

Class Portfolio:	60 (10 x 6)
Project:	40
1 Mid-term exam	100
Final exam	150

Total: 350

Grading Scale: 90-100 A ; 80-89.9 B ; 70-79.9 C ; 60-69.9 D ; Below 60 F

You must earn a C- or better in this course to pass the requirement in the School of Education. You may change to Credit/No Credit up the last day of the class. Credit will be awarded to students earning a D- or better. However, if you choose this option the grade cannot be counted towards the School of Education requirement nor the UM graduation requirement

Endnotes:

Class Portfolio: There will be in class activities typically on Fridays (from the textbook). Over the course of the semester I will pick one activity from each chapter to be showcased in a portfolio. Have a folder in which you gather these. The portfolio will be collected towards the end of April.

Project: I will assign a project over Moodle, which will involve "story problems and the teaching of fractions". Periodically supplementary materials will also be made available on Moodle. Stay tuned for more details.

Mid-terms and Final

One mid-term exam will be given in March. The final will be cumulative in the traditional sense. It will be longer than the mid-term exam and will feature some questions relating directly to material taught earlier in the course.

SOME "FREE" ADVICE

Factors that affect your grade

- Homework: There will be homework assigned on a regular basis, which will be reviewed periodically in class. It is your prerogative to keep up with the material.
- Attendance: Students are expected to attend class, and although class attendance is NOT a component of the course grade, absences will impact your performance since you will miss the material covered in the lectures. Late assignments will not be accepted.
- Make-ups: THERE ARE NO MAKE-UPS regardless of the reason. Exam make-ups will ONLY be given under special and extenuating circumstances, such as a death in the family or illness, provided that: a note from the Health Service or doctor is furnished by the student AND permission is given by me prior to the exam. The final exam is compulsory and no exceptions can be made about the date/time at which it is held- this is decided a priori by the University Administration.

The Final exam is scheduled from 10.10-12.10, May 10

Come to class, work hard, participate in the planned activities, and you will do well in this course.

Good luck and welcome to 132.
